Corn Prices Reach High Level Today

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, May 11.—Corn prices rose today to a new high level for the crop. Wet weather was chiefly responsible for the upturn. Later, however, the market weakened owing to a notice issued by the St. Paul railroad that the distribution of cars during the next ten days the preference would be given to loading of grain. Initial quotations which ranged from half cent decline to 1 1/2 cents advance, with July 17 1/2 to 1.75 1/2 and Sept. 1.63 1/2 to 1.64 were followed by a setback all around to well below yesterday's finish.

Oats like corn developed weakness notwithstanding a firm start. After opening unchanged to 1c higher with July 94c to 94 1/2c, the market sagged to below yesterday's latest figures.

Provisions were easier with grain and hogs. Trading was of only a scattered sort.

Rallies took place later as a result of covering by shorts. The close was unsettled 3/4c net lower to 1/2c advance, with July 1.75 1/2 to 1.75 1/2 and Sept. 1.62 1/2 to 1.62 1/2.

BARE SECRETS OF NAVY INSTRUCTIONS

find out whether his idea will work or not. I have the authority to do that and I will do it with the greatest pleasure. I wish that I could think and had the brains to think in the terms of marine warfare, because I would feel that I was figuring out the future history of the political freedom of mankind. I do not see how any man can look at the flag of the United States and fail having his mind crowded with reminiscences of the number of unselfish men, who have died under the folds of that beautiful emblem. I wonder if men who do die under it realize the distinction they have.

"I conceive it a privilege to come and look at you men and ask you to come and tell me or tell anybody you want to tell how this thing can be better done; and we will thank God that we have got men of origination brains among us.

"We have got to throw tradition to the winds.

"As I have said, gentlemen, I take it for granted that nothing that I say here will be repeated and therefore I am going to say this:

Wanted Something Unusual.

"Every time I have suggested anything to the British admiralty the reply has come back that virtually amounted to this, that it had never been done that way, and I felt like saying, 'well, nothing was ever done so systematically as nothing is being done now.' Therefore, I should like to see something unusual happen, something that was never done before and inasmuch as things that are being done to you were never done before, don't you think it is worth while to try something that was never done before against those who are doing them to you?

"There is no other way to win and the whole principle of this war is the kind of thing that ought to hearten and stimulate America. America is the prize amateur nation of the world. Germany is the prize professional nation of the world. Now when it comes to doing new things and doing them well, I will back the amateur against the professional every time. He knows so little about it that he is fool enough to try the right thing."

Forget Word "Prudent."

"The men that do not know the danger are the rashest men. Please leave out of your vocabulary the word 'prudent.' I do not stop to think about what is prudent for a moment. Do the thing that is audacious to the utmost point of risk and daring because that is exactly the thing that the other does not understand and you will win by the audacity of method when you cannot win by circumspection and prudence.

"I think that there are willing ears to hear this in the American navy and the American army that is the kind of folks we are. We get tired of the old ways and covet the new ones.

"I am not discouraged for a moment, particularly because we haven't begun and without saying anything in disparagement of those with whom we are associated in the war, I do expect things to begin when we begin. If they do not, American history will have changed its course; the American army and navy will have changed their character. There will have to come a new tradition into a service which does not do now and audacious and successful things."

GRACE CHURCH NOTES.

The senior choir will meet Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Mr. Elmore Rice, the leader, will appreciate a full attendance.

Washington, May 10.—President Wilson, always a devotee of the circus, reviewed the season's opening circus parade today from the east portico of the white house. Seated in a chair with Mrs. Wilson standing beside him, he laughed at the antics of the clowns, and several times removed his cap in acknowledgment of the greetings waved to him by the circus folks.

Brief Summary of Last Night's News

(N. E. A. Staff Correspondent.)

Omaha, Neb., May 10.—In a little upstairs room in a lonely Nebraska farmhouse, the most powerful and sensitive wireless receiving apparatus ever set up is listening nightly for a message from Mars.

"If anything on earth can catch such a signal, we can," says Dr. Fredrick H. Millener of Omaha, who with Harvey Gomer, installed the instruments. "And we have heard nothing."

Both Men Are Experts.

Millener and Gomer were for years the electrical and wireless experts of the Union Pacific Railroad. They worked out a system of telephoning to moving trains. They once operated a truck through the streets of Omaha by wireless control.

The basis of the installation at Gomer's ranch is the apparatus used by the army during the war to detect forbidden wireless stations all over the United States. They have hitched it to 30 miles of wire and given it a wave-length so tremendous that it will measure it. They say it is known to be over 500,000 meters.

It is so sensitive that it reaches out a hand toward one of the coils almost extinguishes the signals.

On the night of April 21, when Mars was only 36,000,000 miles from the earth, they extended the apparatus to its fullest reach, strapped the receivers to their ears, and sat all night, waiting.

They heard nothing.

"Listening In" On Space.

It is a weird sensation to "listen in" on space.

Dr. Millener put the receivers on my ears the next night. In the silence of the little farm house room I heard music—a low, clear whistle, like the note of a piccolo.

"We're hitched up for the big commercial stations," he said. "That's California." He pulled a green coil a little further out of its box. There was a rattling like hailstones on a tin roof.

"Static," he explained. "thunderstorm somewhere. That scratching noise is Mexico, talking to Berlin."

He pulled the coil out farther.

"That high whistle is Annapolis; the last thing we hear on earth. It has a wave-length of 16,000 meters."

"Now we'll go outside of everything."

He pulled the coil far out.

Silence. Silence so complete that it was deafening. Silence vast, inscrutable, overwhelming. The silence of infinity.

That was all.

Consider "Possibility."

Dr. Millener will not express an opinion as to the mysterious signals said to have been noticed by Marconi and others. He points out, however, that the strongest sending apparatus thus far developed on earth can send only half way around the world; that Mars was 36,000,000 miles away on the night of April 21 and is now receding; and that we do not even know positively that it is inhabited.

"It is a good thing to consider the possibility of communication," he says "because it leads to further development of wireless."

But any claim that Mars is talking to us will now have to reckon with the detectaphone that is keeping tab on interstellar space from the Nebraska farm house.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

(Copyright, 1920, N. E. A.)

With the coming of warm damp days, it is quite necessary to keep close watch over all food that is stored.

The bread box especially needs constant attention. Bread of course should never be put away until thoroughly cooled. The cloths in which it is wrapped should be perfectly fresh and clean. The box itself should be well scalded and aired before each baking. Bread gathers dampness when enclosed in a tin box and will collect a slight mold perhaps impossible to see but evident to taste. While a tin box keeps the bread fresher than any other container it requires greater care.

Menu for Tomorrow.

BREAKFAST—Bananas, uncooked cereal, soft boiled eggs, toast, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of potato soup, toasted muffins, marmalade, tea.

DINNER—Boiled fish, egg sauce, new potatoes, buttered beets, lettuce salad with combination dressing, raisin puffs, coffee.

My Own Recipes.

The new spring carrots combined with an orange make most delicious marmalade. One may add a few raisins, thereby saving a little sugar. Any fruit left from the winter may be made over into a "butter" or jam.

With fresh fruits in the market canned fruit loses its popularity as a dessert.

U. S. NATIONAL PARKS

Your Uncle Sam has acquired two new national parks. They will make all the white lighted luna and lunatic parks in this country look like candles beside a high-powered searchlight.

These new parks are named Kilanea and Mauna Loa and to provide sufficient excitement and thrills for the park picnicers, each park has a rebut and world famous volcano in its midst. Of course, the parks are in the Hawaiian Islands and your Uncle Sam has been to some pains to get possession of them.

The Volcano Mauna Loa is in almost continuous activity and is the largest volcano on earth, although not the loftiest. It is more than two and a half miles high; its crater is one and a half miles in diameter and over 1000 feet deep. The streams of lava move slowly and therefore the eruptions are rarely fatal. However, when a stream starts downward in a given direction, everything must get out of its way or be run over. Forty years ago a lava stream was 50 miles long and three miles wide.

Kilanea Park is a sort of Siamese sister of Mauna Loa, connected because Kilanea volcano is a part of the same mountain. Although Kilanea is only 4000 feet high, it is some volcano, always active and sending off great streams of lava, usually to the sea. Its crater contains a molten, boiling lake.

STICK TO IT

First of all decide that the job is worth doing.

Second, that you are the person who should do it.

Third, do it.

But you won't do it if you don't stick to it until it is done.

Consider the postage stamp. How far do you suppose it would carry your letter if it dropped off before it reached the mail box?

The postage stamp carries your letter around the world, up to the top floor of the highest office building, to the lowest basement room, through crowded city streets, or far off into the lonesome desert, all because it sticks.

Next job you tackle consider the postage stamp.

And stick.

WHAT CANCER IS NOT

Although cancer is increasing in the world, there are certain aspects of the situation that are satisfying—that are, at any rate reassuring to people who fear the worst about anything.

Cancer is not contagious. Nor is it infectious. You can't get it from breathing the air of the sickroom of a cancer patient, nor can you get it from dressing the cancer wound.

Nevertheless, common cleanliness requires that you should clean your hands after performing such a service
The stories of "cancer houses," "cancer towns" and "cancer belts" are all illusions.

Cancer is not a germ disease. The experts of the American Society for the Prevention of Cancer say that the most intense study of the last 30 years and the most carefully and exhaustive chemical and microscopic analysis have proved this without a doubt.

Cancer is not hereditary. Authorities tell you that observations with the human family and experiments in the animal world show that

BRINGING UP FATHER.

you will not have cancer merely because one or more of your ancestors had it.

Therefore, if you are perfectly well,
do not nurse illusions about cancer.
But if you have something the matter with you that you do not know the nature of; if you have a growth or a breaking out that refuses to yield to treatment, see your physician about it.

THE WILD GODS

The wild gods are calling. Their voices reach into the deepest corners of remote office buildings, into the roaring furnaces of the foundry, into the deafening hum of the machine shop. All sorts of people have their ears keyed to the call.

In soft spring days the mental pictures brought up by the outside crowd would bring tears to the eyes of a moose. Those folks want to get back.

They want to wade last summer's streams, to climb last season's hills, to pluck the wild strawberry from its sunny, sandy home.

They want to hear the "plop" of the bass as it breaks water in its eternal flight for food.

They want to smell the good old wood smoke as they "ble the kettle."

O, how they want to go back! And the wild gods keep calling, calling, calling! Will that army to whom the music is attuned soon be on the move? Yes, it will, and with the doggondest lot of fishing tackle, and cameras, and tents, and condensed liquids, and compact solids and tents,
and collapsible stoves, and equipment and duffle that the oldest guides that inhabit the wild places ever saw in their young lives.

Confessions of a Bride
(Copyright 1920, by The Newspaper Enterprise Association)

"I am quite at your service, Mrs. Lorimer," said Dr. Travers politely, but without much enthusiasm as he helped me overside. We rowed noiselessly away from the 'lone.' Nobody heard us—nobody saw us. When we were at a safe distance from the yacht Travers set the engine to going.

It was absurd, of course, that I,
Jane Lorimer, a nice civilized bride,
should find myself sitting in a power boat with a handsome cavalier, at midnight, off the coast of Mexico.

"Oh la! la!" I was saying to myself just as Travers turned from the engine and asked:

"I—I—don't know," I stammered, "but I think you do. I fancy you know this coast pretty well?"

"Fairly. I've lived in the town two years."

"Where is there a bit of shore like this?" I described the spot I had seen in my haunting vision. Put into words, my description might have fitted a million strips of ocean beach.

But Travers had an imagination. Moreover he was trying to humor my absurd whim. And have it over with, perhaps.

"There's something like that—north of the town. Quite a little run from here, Mrs. Lorimer."

"Can we make it—there and back—before the yacht sails at dawn?"

"Easily—if we have the gas." Travers turned a flashlight on the gas gauge. "But what do you want to go to that deserted spot for at this time of the night? It isn't humanly possible for me not to ask that question, you know," he concluded as he headed the boat for the shore.

I told him about the haunting vision and of how Daddy Lorimer had scorched at me for harboring it.

"Well, I don't like the stunt myself, Mrs. Lorimer. But I will obey your orders—as long as the gas lasts." He gave a second glance at the gauge.

"You can rely on the reserve," I asserted. "I'd like to see a Lorimer craft without its proper equipment. Especially a boat under Captain Twombly's command."

"The skipper is a tyrant—rather," drawled Travers. "That's why I suggested he might sail before the dawn, if he took a notion to. But of course he wouldn't sail without you on board, Mrs. Lorimer."

"Goodness gracious!" was my comment. "They will not investigate! They will think that you and I are asleep!"

"We should worry," came back the comforting suggestion. "They'll miss this boat and they will wait until the culprit comes back with it."

"So we're safe! And this stunt is not risky! And isn't it a wonderful night—with the sea so smooth—"

"And the stars so bright—" I echoed. "It's all turning out right. Maybe we will not make this trip for nothing."

Travers did not reply. He didn't seem to feel as optimistic as I did.

We had been racing toward the shore at a great speed. The Lorimer boats are the finest that money can buy. We could no longer distinguish the yacht in the distance. We didn't come upon any spot which corresponded at all to my vision.

We two seemed alone together in the world—a vast and silent world. And Travers seemed to have lost all interest in conversation. I hoped he wasn't getting a little exasperated with the proceeding.

We moved slowly parallel to the curves of the land. It would be hard for us to distinguish human beings on the sands—if there happened to be any in that unfortunate state.

Thinking so, an idea came to me.

"We must fix a signal light," I cried. "These lanterns will do—a red and a white set above a blue one at the prow. Any imaginative person ought to get that correctly."

We made the blue light by tying my sash about a white lantern.

With magical scissors and thread and needle the work was quickly done tygibbet notions the creatures take sometimes.

It was the wise old Magical Mushroom who decided the matter. "I think," he said, "that I'd let them try it. The Fairy Queen wishes everyone to be happy, and sometimes the only way people can be happy is to find out how foolish they've been."

"That's so!" said Rubadub. "All right, you two rascals, I'll exchange your ears and tail. Come here!" And with magical scissors and thread and needle the work was quickly done.

Scramble wiggled Ben's long ears delightedly, and Ben swished Scram-ble's bushy tail around, too pleased for anything!

Puck is Life

It is ancient, be-whiskered philosophy that one never knows the man but only has a picture of him—a reflection, as it were—in the things he does.

Consider the jelly bean as a mirror of man. It toils not and hardly ever spins, yet in verity the jelly bean may be a looking-glass held to the inner man.

Two girls came down BLANK street yesterday afternoon. The first one, tall and ultra willowy, held a white paper bag in her hand and the two munched jelly beans from it.

"And I sez to him, I sez," recounted
the shorter girl with a fish-hook curl,
"I sez, 'where d'ye get that old stuff?'
You orter seen him, Mazie, when I sez that to him!"

Mazie laughed and when she laughed she "willowed," if you know what we mean.

Presto! The beans were spilled!

Like torjedo boats in battle line stretched away from a leading cruiser at the right flank, came a mother and her flock.

One, two, three, four—six altogether in this family. Some held hands and some did not, but they extended from margin to margin across the sidewalk.

Number Three saw the jelly beans
first.

Then Numbers Two and One discovered the pleasurable sensation derived from squashing jelly beans. The line wavered and broke when Five and Six invented, or discovered, the game
of jelly-bean soccer.

Hardly had the mother rounded up the brood and reformed her line when—

He must have been a banker.

He saw the jelly beans. He slowed his brisk walk. Like the Lady of Shalot he turned his head and looked. The coast was clear!

Bing!

He kicked a jelly bean until it whistled in its flight toward the car tracks.

Bam!

His too disturbed another and he grinned and one could see he saw himself, reflected in the jelly bean, in another day, sans diamonds, sans derby

There an "apple-pie-order," and mine would be pie;
There are apples as dear as the one of your eye;
But mine's the misfortune I'm telling you of—
I am always biting worm-holes in my apple of love.

(Che.)

Some lovers always pick a pipkin for theirs;
Some lovers love along without any cares.
Some lovers pick 'em green and some pick 'em mellow;
Some pick 'em red-cheeked and some pick 'em yellow.
But tho' I pick wind-falls or pick them above,
I am always finding worm-holes in my apples of love!

PARIS TAKES ON A
"RENO" LOOK

(Top to bottom) Mrs. Ogden Mills, Jr., Mrs. Leonard Thomas, and Mrs. Phillip Lydig.

New York, May 11.—If you don't like your husband and he doesn't like you, it's no longer fashionable to tell him to "go to Reno." Make it Paris, instead. Three of America's most beautiful and richest women, Mrs. Ogden Mills, Jr., Mrs. Leonard Thomas and Mrs. Phillip Lydig recently obtained their final decrees in Paris. The husbands entered no appeal. Rumors are to the effect that at least six more prominent New Yorkers are waiting final action in the Paris divorce mill.

TENNIS COURTS

Work was started on the Y. M. C. A. tennis courts at the Assembly and they are rapidly beginning to look like something. One court is practically ready to play on and the other will be ready before the end of the week. The courts are being rolled and permanent markers in the form of tape are being put down to mark the lines. Members of the Tennis Club will have exclusive use of the grounds and rules and regulations and other information will be issued later on. The courts will be kept in first class condition this season and this will assure some good sport with the rackets.

Ross Lands
in Illinois!

When A. B. Ross announced last fall that Ohio and Pennsylvania had proved new fertilizer principles, it was startling. Now he shows that 17 years' experiments on Illinois farms support his theories. Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins' life-work—The Illinois System—while very good, is shown to be not the best. Read in

The Farm Journal

for May how every Illinois soil, from best to worst, shows better returns from mineral fertilizers than from lime, raw phosphate rock, and "crop residues." Don't fail to read these sensational fertilizer facts. And these other articles, too:

Only One Good Tractor

In spite of the claims of manufacturers, there is only one good tractor—and that is the one that fits your farm. It must be big enough, and not too big. It must replace enough horses to pay, and not be so big that it eats up work and stands idle much of the time. The question is, how to apply these rules—and that is precisely what this fine illustrated article in the May issue will tell you.

Five Kinds of Concrete Tanks

As long as milk is mostly water, the water supply for stock is vitally important, and here are plans and illustrations for five kinds of tanks that are practical, durable, easily made, and relatively cheap.

Bonds, Mortgages, or More Land?

With farm land prices ballooning, mortgages demoralized, and bonds dirt cheap, what is best to buy? Which investment is soundest right now? Which will be most valuable in ten years? It takes a long head to figure this thing out, and a man with just such a head tells in May what he thinks is the best thing to do.

Pure-bred Pedigreed Scrubs

In this splendid illustrated article, M. G. Kirkpatrick shows that an animal must stand on his own feet. No matter who his parents were, no matter how blue-blooded his ancestors, he must make good himself or go to the discard. After all, scrubs are scrubs, no matter who the breeder is.

Killing Disease Germs in the Soil

Sometimes the ground must be sterilized to rid it of diseases, particularly for gardens and truck farming. This new method has proved effective and practical. Illustrated.

"Cecelia" Now Far Ahead

All long-distance egg records are broken by the famous Farm Journal Wyandotte hen, "Cecelia No. 219." The excellent Cornell and Purdue Leghorn entries are left so far in the rear that there is "nothing to it." Read in May about this great performance, and get the cash figures showing that some modern egg-farm theories are all wrong.

DECISIVE DEFEAT FOR THOMPSON; GOVERNOR GIVEN ENDORSEMENT

Republicans Defer Action on Platform Until September

By Associated Press Leased Wire Springfield, Ill., May 11.—Satisfaction over the result of the Illinois state Republican convention was expressed today by Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson, campaign manager for Governor Lowden. Secretary Emmerson claims that by the refusal of the convention yesterday to accept Mayor William Hale Thompson's plank of principles the Chicago executive was "decisively defeated."

Democratic leaders were also well satisfied today with yesterday's harmonious session of their state convention. The disposal of the "wet" plank in the resolutions committee without a fight on the convention floor closed the only possibility of action between the delegates.

Secretary Emmerson has made public the following statement regarding the Republican convention:

"One of the greatest conventions in the history of the state has just ended. In attendance and interest manifested in its two sessions it will long be remembered."

Governor Lowden and his friends felt that the state platform should not be adopted until after the primary next September when the Republican candidates for state offices should all have been nominated. This would give all the Republican nominees opportunity to have a voice in making the platform upon which they would run at the November election. Mayor Thompson and his friends wanted their platform adopted now. In the test that came Mayor Thompson's platform was decisively defeated.

"Throughout the contest Governor Lowden insisted that there should be no personalities. After it was over recognizing the principle of representation he urged the selection of Mayor Thompson and corporation Counsel Samuel Ettelson as two of the 10 delegates at large."

In after convention discussions of the political situation in the state the name of Senator Lawrence Y. Sherman was mentioned among the leaders as a possible candidate for national committeeman from Illinois to succeed Mayor Thompson.

Alabama Primary is Center of Interest

By Associated Press Leased Wire Montgomery, Ala., May 11.—The Democratic state wide primary today was expected to result in the polling of the largest vote in years. In addition to two senatorial candidates ten candidates were to be nominated for the house of representatives, 24 delegates to the San Francisco convention were to be chosen, also a long list of minor officers.

Senator Underwood, leader of his party in the senate was opposed by Judge Sam D. Weakley of Birmingham and L. B. Musgrove of Jasper. William Jennings Bryan stumped the state in advocacy of Mr. Musgrove and this particular contest aroused much bitterness. Four candidates aspire to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Bankhead. They are former Governor Emmett O'Neal, Representative J. Thomas Heflin, Ray Rushton of Montgomery and former Senator Frank White of Birmingham. Mr. Bryan also urged the defeat of Mr. O'Neal.

To Determine Status Chiropractors; Law of State Attacked

By Associated Press Leased Wire Rock Island, Ill., May 11.—Charged with practicing medicine without a license, chiropractors of three states are rallying in defense here today for the hearing before Judge Ramsey in the circuit court of a petition for a permanent injunction restraining the National Chiropractic Association from exercising its function as set forth in its constitution.

A temporary injunction was issued last week.

The petition sets forth that the association in assisting its members to avoid the law and to minimize the punishments for such violation, is acting illegally. It is signed for the people of Illinois by Francis W. Shephardson, director of the department of registration and education, Edward J. Brundage, attorney general and Benjamin S. Bell, state's attorney of Rock Island county. In making his decision, Judge Ramsey will set a precedent in establishing the legal status of chiropractors in Illinois.

Attorney Thomas N. Morris of La Crosse, Wis., national attorney for the association speaking for the defendants, in an answer to the petition asking for an injunction as argued last Saturday, denounced the medical act as discriminatory, unjust and out of harmony with attitude of other states in regard to the licensing of chiropractors.

Bleachers at Brown Field Under a Roof

The management of the Browns field will proceed with improvements this spring despite the high cost of lumber. A new bleacher has been completed at back of first base and this seating arrangement will become quite popular as was evidenced by the crowd who scrambled for the bleacher seats at last Sunday's game. To further the comfort of spectators and fans, Manager Hal Drake is having this bleacher placed under a roof, which will keep off the sun and weather during the summer.

HOW TO GROW FOOD IN YOUR GARDEN

BY W. F. FECHNER, Champion War Garden Director of America.

ONIONS.

The ease with which the largest dry onions are grown from seed makes it possible for everyone to effect a considerable saving in their household bills. The best varieties are: Australian Brown (best keeping), Yellow Prizetaker, White Silverskin and Extra Early Red.

An ounce of seed will be sufficient for a large family.

Have your ground thoroughly pulverized, rich in humus and fertility.

Sow in double or triple rows eight inches between. With a sharp stick or tool draw one-quarter inch deep ridges for the rows. Drop a few seeds every six inches apart. Cover lightly and gently firm with a board. Keep surface moist, but not wet till the seed comes up. When a few inches tall thin out to one plant to hill. Give frequent cultivation and keep free from weeds.

Where onions are wanted for eating, as green table onions, sets instead of seed should be used to insure quicker results.

BEANS.

While some beans are harder than others no beans should be planted till the ground is well warmed up and all danger from nightly chilling is past. However, should beans be caught by a frost and be bitten, replant at once. Make successive plantings every ten days to insure a continuous supply.

Among the green podded beans the Giant Stringless Green Pod and Refugee are as good as any. Both being round-podded and quite early, and while being excellent home and market beans both are well adapted to canning.

I prefer to plant two rows with eight inches between, so as to be of protection and support during a windy day. Plant four to six beans to the hills, which should be about eight inches apart in the row, and finally thinned out to leave three to each hill. Cover about two inches deep in planting.

Wax beans are planted like green podded beans. While the "black wax," rust-proof wax, kidney wax and others are good, we have never found a bean to equal the "refugee wax," both for quality as well as quantity.

"Just One" and It's Always Done

"Just One" is the Name of the Only Laxative of Which Just One is Always the Right Dose.

Just one tablet of "Just One" is always a "just right" dose. The only laxative that never wears out, that gives the same results year in and year out, that your system does not become callous to and that never needs to have its dosage increased.

The Great Results that come from the Special Steels in a MAXWELL

There is a double advantage in the use of these special steels in a Maxwell.

1.—They eliminate superfluous pounds, lighten the task of the engine, ease the burden on tires, make possible quicker acceleration.

2.—They add strength which insures endurance, dependability, uninterrupted performance, and infrequent repairs.

These special steels make possible the Maxwell construction of great strength combined with light weight.

The light weight decreases the burden on the engine and their strength provides endurance.

They have been important factors in the success of Maxwell the world over, in its ever-increasing friendships, in its great growth.

Nearly 400,000 Maxwells are now in use. You cannot motor even in a foreign land, without meeting them.

Shock-Absorbers
For False Teeth
Cleveland, May 1.—Non-Skid Shock Absorbers for false teeth are the latest thing. Heretofore the principle of shock absorbers has been limited in application but now a Cleveland chemical concern advertises a powder which sprinkled upon "store teeth," forms a smooth cushion, holds them firmly in place, and gives a "non-skid" effect while they romp over the toughest roasting ears of corn and chew the stickiest candy.

One who has lost his natural teeth can supply himself with this antiseptic, adhesive comfort powder—Corega—at a drug store, and proceed to laugh and sneeze, crack nuts and do other hazardous things without risk of shaking his prized false teeth from their upper and lower berths. 35c at druggists.—Adv.

Swift & Company
Does Not Control Its
Raw Material

Other industries can buy their raw materials according to need or judgment, and set a selling price. They need manufacture only what they can sell at their price.

Cotton, wool, wheat, lumber, iron, steel, and other non-perishables, can be held either by their producers or their users until needed.

But live stock comes to market every day in fluctuating quantities from scattered sources, wholly uncontrolled and at times without regard to market needs.

An immediate outlet must be found for the perishable products, at whatever price, as only a very small proportion can be stored.

No one can foresee or stipulate what they shall bring; prices must fluctuate from day to day to insure keeping the market clear.

Only the most exacting care of every detail of distribution enables Swift & Company to make the small profit from all sources of a fraction of a cent per pound, necessary for it to continue to obtain capital and maintain operations.

A Home To Fit Every Pocketbook

If you are renting, and are enjoying (?) that sensation of uncertainty as to how long it will be before the house is sold and you will have to move to—goodness only knows where—come in and see us. We're the easiest people you ever saw to get up to—you don't have to hand us oranges on the end of a fish-pole. Your only regret will be that you didn't get acquainted with us long before.

Speaking of the scarcity of houses to rent reminds us of the experience of one lady who looked up just 48 leads before she found one she could get, and then she had to take a place and let the old rooster who owned it retain a room or two—just think of all that racing around and telephoning and then not being able to get a whole house for her family. Moral: See Sterling," and buy a home and thus save a lot of time and trouble.

Will be in the office on Sundays from 10 to 12 in the forenoon and from 2 to 4 in the afternoon, to take care of people who can't get away from their work during the week.

No trouble to show property. We have one or more skunk-barouches on duty days, nights and Sundays.

Here's a list of homes on tap at this time, and we have lots of others:

Retail Profit Tax Plan is Abandoned

Washington, May 10.—Republican members of the house ways and means committee definitely decided today to abandon the proposed one per cent retail sales tax for raising part of the money for the proposed soldier relief legislation.

WARNING TO INVESTORS

During 1919 over 2,000 oil companies were formed; 87% of them are worthless. Don't buy stocks unless you investigate. Become a subscriber to Hogan's "Facts & Fakes" of Wall Street, and get reports on all securities. We do not buy or sell stocks. We report as to their value. Subscription price is Two Dollars (2.00) per year. Write for sample copy. JOHN HOGAN, Inc. 52 Broadway New York City 8912
